Closed campus, new doors, and portables...Oh my! The many lives of students have been changed by these many renovations happening around the school. "Now that all these renovations are going on, my friends and I weren't able to hang out where we used to," said Long Nhan (06). Many seniors went "back down memory lane" about stuff that was here that isn't here anymore. Jessica Au (06) said, "I remember when the dungeon used to be where the freshmen would hang out. Now it is all gone. It's not there anymore." Even though some students have been here for a while, they found themselves lost in this "new world". Because of new doors and the new paint job wing numbers and door numbers are not visible. "It took me a long time finding my class because there weren't any numbers on anything," said Joey Noonan (08). Even though many things were different, the student life was short when one pondered about it. Spread by: Clai Sibley and Emerald Lucas

renovating strong foundation

After settling in the students, new administrators Mr. Vinh Lam and Ms. Carol Halbe observed their new home and family.

"Foundation is the basis on which a thing is founded, supported; the cornerstone and core of the whole." Walking into the newly painted hall-ways and newly paved pavements, John F. Kennedy gained new high spirits and incoming hungry minds. For Delia Torres (07), renovation meant, of course, change. She stated, "This construction is new. There are too many colors around, but I know it's all for something positive in the end. The rally helped set the mood for the new year." The expanding of the campus meant transformation and the welcome rally helped set the mood for the year.

Ready and willing, Kennedy's foundation was also strengthened by the new administrators who welcomed the JFK student body. The new faces added to the staff were determined and strong tin their conviction that Kennedy had great potential. "The new administrators are involved now and are seen during school activities. The welcome rally helped us see that they care," said Al'andrea Scott (08). "They promised to be of help to all of us, so we'll just see."

With all that, new expectations were made, by the teachers and students. With the renovation, everyone was ready to build on the success that had been achieved over the previous years.

SPACE JAM SOPHOMORES

MIGHTY MORPHING POWER SENIORS

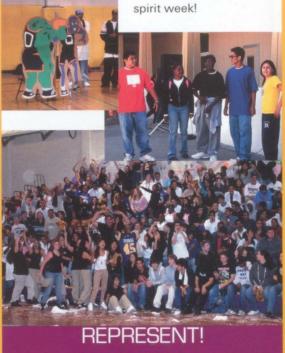

ou wish you were a senior or sophomore "was the phrase heard all around school on the seniors' and sophomores' spirt week days. Seniors and sophomores ruled the week with their elaborate themes, vibrant colors, and spirit. The seniors named themselves the Mighty Morphing Power Seniors based on the '90s children series, Power Rangers." I think our theme was pretty cool. I liked the fact that we brought something back that we all grew up with, "said Esther Pak (06). Power Ranger-themed decorations filled the quad and students wore shirts with the monster defeating heroes on them. "I wore my yellow Power Ranger shirt to school to show off our theme and I was the yellow ranger in our skit," said Jordan Varela (06). Seniors sister class, the sophomores, theme was Space Jam Sophomores named after the hit Looney Toons movie starring Michael Jordan. They decorated the campus with life-sized Looney Toons characters like Tweety Bird, Taz, and Elmer Fudd and hand-made basketball hoops. In the end the sophomores shut out everyone in the decorations category."I really give the sophomores props on their decorations, "said Jason Watts (06). At the end, of the week every class did well but the seniors and sophomores shined over-all and at the end of the week, everyone was wishing they were a sophomore or senior.

MEMORIES

Memories about spirit week will remain in the sophomores' and seniors' minds forever. No matter how big or little it was, this day will go down in history. The sophomores shocked everyone with their decorations and seniors wowed everyone with their dance and their over-all spirit! "The walkin was one of the most memorable moments for me," said Evelyn Martinez (06). The beginning of the week started rough, but the week ended with a bang. "I have to admit, we all didn't have as much spirit when we were representing our class, but the rally gave us a boost! I don't know what it was!" said

"This isn't the last time you will see me, Rangers!" said Lita Vo (06) when she played as the Power Rangers' evil villian Rita in the skit.

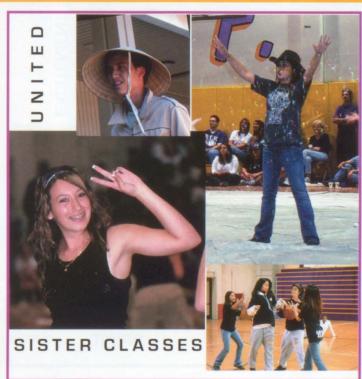

The senior class was at a roar when pom-poms donated by DeVry got thrown into the crowd. " It was so exciting to see how much spirit my class had and we went out with a BANG!" said Johnathan Gervais (06).

Ryan Erondana (08) A.K.A. Bugs hopped and danced around the sophomores while they were performing their dance. "I was getting my class pumped up and no one knew who I was!"

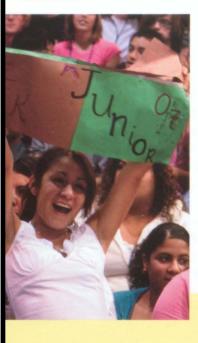

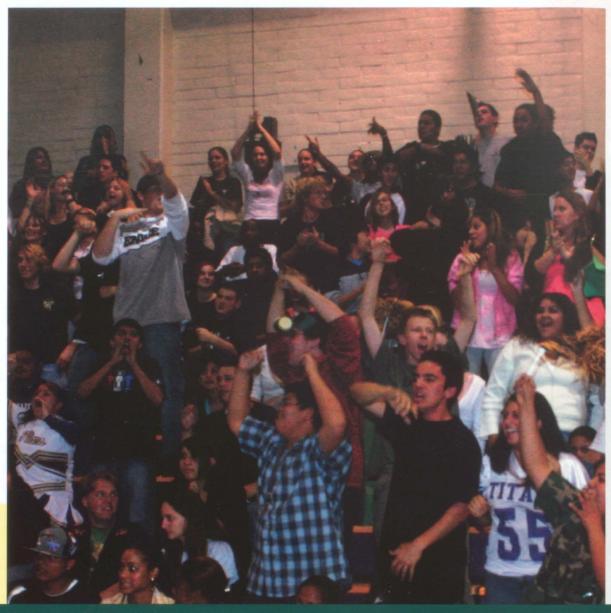

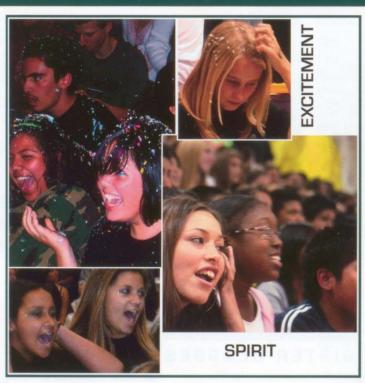

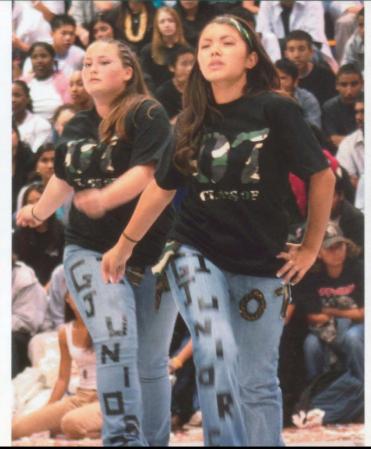

The song "Run It," by Chris Brown started signaling the Junior class to dance. With the song, the class of 2007 went wild and spirits were up!

Carolina Cisneros (07) holds up her banner to represent her class. "I wanted to show how much spirit I have for my class by making a sign," said Cisneros.

JUNIORS AND FRESHMEN

Both the juniors and freshmen enjoyed Spirit Week. For the freshmen this was their first rally and they seemed to be very excited. They enjoyed all the entertainment, especially the dancing, We asked some of the dancers how they felt while performing in front of the whole school. "Being on that stage made my heart pump really fast; we were the center of attention and I didn't even think about messing up," stated Danielle Carrion (07). Najia Nawabi (07) showed off her spirit with her army gear, "I love how my class was so spirited and everyone wore army gear and painted their faces," Nawabi said.

CLASS OF 07' AND 09' SPICING UP SPIRIT WEEK

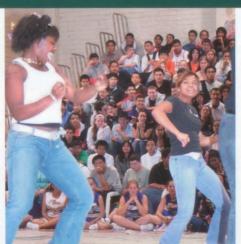

little spirit went a long way at JFK. The Freshmen of Belair only had a little over a week to prepare for the spirit rally, but they blew up the stage with their outrageous dancing. "We didn't have much time, but we got the job done," said Larah Sonico (09). Although their dance was great, the freshmen thought their spirit just wasn't right. "Even though my class wasn't spirited, we still had a really good time and I can't wait until next year," said Cynthia Solórzano (09). Overall, the freshmen can learn from this experience, thanks to the help from their sister class. The GI juniors, who were determined to make their junior year's spirit rally better than the previous years. "Spirit week was a pretty stressful week, but at the rally everything came together and we had a blast," Susana Figueroa (07) told us. The juniors said they were more spirited and more organized, although they received third place in the overall spirit competition; they were still number one in their hearts. "It was exciting to see our class come together and show some school spirit," Jasmine Grady (07) told us. Senior year just around the corner, who knows what they will think of next.

Struting their stuff on the dance floor, Katrina Mares (07) and Chelsey Ryker (07) walk with attitude. "Even though there were complications, our high spirit made It all come together and it turned out to be really fun," Mares said.

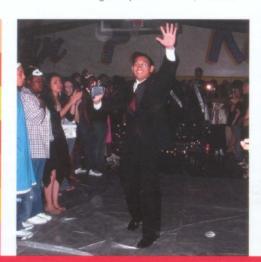

The freshmen dance along with the music and praised the dancers for such a good performance. "It was cool representing my class," said Lowie Villavazo (09).

Brittany Bailey (09) and Faith Tamba (09) both move the school with their up beat dancing. "I wasn't nervous at all, I enjoy performing in front of crowd," Baily said.

Claude Quebec (06) makes his way down the aisle after being declared second runner-up. "Third place is a journey through the galactic universe riding on a plastic scooter," he said.

n the night of the Homecoming Game, not only were the members of the court shaking from the cold, they were shaking from the excitement and anticipation of the announcement to come. They knew it was going to be a close call. "Anyone on the court could have gotten it, we all deserved it," said Homecoming King, Michael Parks (06). As the names of the court nominees were announced in the order of their ranking. cheers of equal enthusiasm sounded through the stadium for each person. According to Lupe Martinez (06), "It didn't feel like a competition, everyone was friends and there were a lot of good feelings between us." Finally, the last announcement was made, declaring Kesha Hughes (06) homecoming queen. Homecoming was a great experience and no one put it better than Kesha, "I didn't care if I won or not. Out of my whole high school career, homecoming was the best experience. From spirit week, to the dance, to the game, to the window, to the wall, to the crown on my head, everything was hecka tight."

HOMECOMING GAME

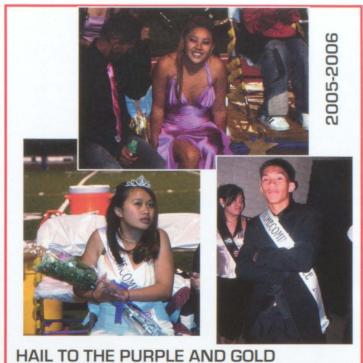

Homecoming weekend was the highlight of the school year for many students. Whether they were cheering our team on at the game, rooting for their friends on Homecoming court, or dancing the night away at the dance, everyone had a great time. For many people, Homecoming, and all the events that came with it, was the highlight of the year. "Homecoming is the best time of the year. Eeveryone shows the pride they have for our school. I look forward to it every year," said Ashlee McGaughey (07).

Devon Merriot (07) shows two friends her handmade jewelry. "I seen that my mom had a lot of hobbies and I wanted one. Finally, I came to making jewelry. All my jewelry is pure glass and some are wood beads. I make rings, braclets, anklets and necklaces. It takes time and money so sometimes I have to wait awhile before I can create more," said Merriot.

What is your hobby/interest?

Jacqleen Salinas (06) answered, "My hobby is shopping. Whether I'm trying to relieve stress or just want to have fun I can always rely on new clothes."

Eric Bitting (07) said, "I play video games but my favorite is Madden 2006, I feel like I am in my own little world."

"I have a lot of aquar ums with saltwater fish, eels, and other poisonous fish. Just feeding them isn't anything exciting, so I enjoy watching them," stated Matthew Cooper (08).

"Boxing is my hobby and I really enjoy it. I would like to go pro so it may become my future career. I practice everyday and go to the gym for about an hour and a half twice a week to train," commented Danica Servin (07).

Work, Play, or Games

With spare time, what's in mind?

hether it was taking a dance class, playing an instrument, collecting something or just simply watching the hottest new movies, everyone had a hobby or interest that was right for them. Sometimes people chose a hobby because it was a natural talent or just something new and exciting. "I just hang out with my friends and it is always fun and helps when I'm feeling down or with whatever is going on," commented Ana Lopez (09). School took up a lot of time in students' lives and there had to be something to fall back on. Sometimes there were those groups of people that had the same hobbies but gave them a different and unique twist. "I play the guitar, but I really put my heart into it to make the music come alive. I really express my feelings and my love for guitar keeps growing," stated Larry Cheng (07). With the many stresses in a teenager's life, their hobby was always something to help soothe problems and at the same time gave them an enjoyable time. "When I'm mad or have stuff on my mind, I write about those problems then put then into a rap," said Marcus Armistead (07). All together hobbies and interests helped in everyday life and gave a person individuality.

As Chris Wiebusch (07) delivers a roundhouse kick he says afterwards, "I've done Tae Kwon Do for 8 years and it has really helped me be more confident and has taught me lessons to use in life."

After Rachel Ramos (08) finishes a melody she commented, "I've been singing since I was three years old. I've gained confidence and it helps me express myself."

"Four years is a long time, but I'm happy we're together," said Zaki Farid (06). Highschool had a lot of drama, but through good and bad times Zaki and Emerald, his girlfriend, were always there for each other.

Carlos Terrazas (08) and Sarah Carlson (07) have been in a serious relationship for about a year. "It was so cute when we went to go see a movie and afterwards went to Texas Roadhouse to eat dinner," said Carlson.

Meliza Mendoza (09) had her eye on Anthony Cambell (07) for a while. "He's really cute and we've hung out before but I don't know how he feels about me," explains Mendoza.

"She's a really cool girl, but I get nervous sometimes when I talk to her because I'm scared of rejection," explained Joey Moniz (07). Joey had a crush on Angelica Haro (08) since the summer of '05.

elationships came and went, and Kennedy was no exception. As you walked around, the one couple that stood out was Zaki Farid (06) and Emerald Lucas (06), who were together for four years. "It was ough in the beginning, but we learned to work out our differences," said Emerald (06). They may have had hard times, but they worked through it. A true friend was someone who always had your back, through thick and thin, who was there for you. "At varsity camp last summer the coaches were thinking about bringing me back down to JV and it lowered my self-esteem. Michael Parks talked to me and helped me feel better about it. In the end I didn't have to worry about it because they kept me on varsity," explained Trevor Bauchou (08). Friends were what made school days fun; they were there to lift up students spirits. "Without having my friends at school, I would have been really bored and I wouldn't have known what to do," explained Leonard Johnson (07). Sibling relationships were a whole different story. Most siblings didn't get along but they had to deal with going to the same school. "I didn't like having my brothers at school with me because they were too over protective," explained Rachel Ross (07). A lot of people tried to act like their siblings didn't even exist. However, many students just had to deal with it at times. "I liked having my sister here because she told me what was cool since she had been here for 2 years," explained Alleny Vasquez (09). Even though having a sibling at the same school was annoying at times, students knew they could count on each other. In conclusion, no matter what, through the ups and downs, everything was easier when students had someone there for them. Spread By: Elissa Gomez and Chelsey Ryker

SERVICE LEARNING

SCOUR FOR HOURS

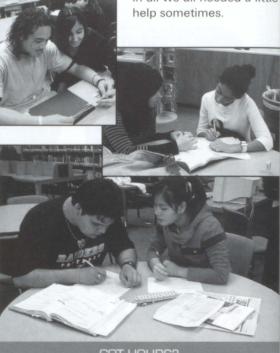

TUDENTS please remember to turn in your service learning hours to Mrs. Roberts! was Ms. Montez's daily announcement to students during the bulletin. Students were required to have 40 hours of service learning before they were able to graduate. It seemed a little farfetched but there are positives to this requirement. "The students are learning life lessons that you just can't learn from a book," said Mrs. Roberts. Service learning was a major part in helping students prepare for the real world. For example, one way that some students earned their hours was by helping out at a homeless shelter by serving food to those in need. "Sometimes on weekends I would help out at a shelter that my church was supporting," said Joel Ramon (06). By doing that job, Joel learned to care about other people than himself. There were many other ways to earn Service Learning Hours such as: cleaning up the school, reading to children in public libraries, coaching a child's sports team, or helping at a fair booth. Service Learning wasn't just all work and no play, the students had a fun time earning their hours. "Last year I helped out at the Halloween house, I had a blast scaring little kids," said Devin Merriott (07). The sound of Ms. Montez' voice continued to ring in the students' heads, but one can bet that they didn't forget to get their service learning finished.

What could you do to earn Service Learning Hours? One way students are earning their hours is by helping fellow peers by tutoring them in subjects that might have been troublesome to them. Whether it was buying gas for your car or buying the shoes of your dreams, everyone needed the money. "It wasn't fun having to pay for my own things, but it made me more responsible on how to control my money. If I didn't control it I'd be broke," explained Casey Brown (06). No matter how big or small the job was, every cent counted. Students didn't really care what job they had; money was the only matter. "I didn't like my job because it was boring, but I kept it because I needed the money," explained Jaime Garibay (06). For most students, it was hard to manage going to school, doing extracurricular activities, and having a job all at once. "It was hard to manage my school work and my job because I got a lot of hours and I played sports," explained Liliola Pousima (07). It was very stressful and difficult at times as well. "Having a job was stressful for me because I worked right after school until around 10pm and then I had a bunch of statistics homework," explained Katrina Belda (06). For some people, having a job wasn't actually that bad. "My job wasn't that bad because I got to talk to people and have fun. Precious Ricardo (06) started singing when she was a 7th grader because her dad believed in her. She loves the spotlight of singing solo, but singing in groups was okay as well.

"Our life should be a musical since we make it one anyway. We have a song for everything," said Scarlett Spangler (07) and Ashlee McGaughey (07). So if you've ever heard anyone randomly singing in the halls, it was probably them.

The musical influence provided by his family inspired Marc Wilson (07) to start dancing. "My sister got me into R&B and my dad got me into rap because he was a DJ," Marc said, showing off some moves.

Some people clearly had a unique flare for the music they liked. For Sebastian Garcia (07), bands like Anti-Flag inspired him to start playing bass. Punk or not, Sebastian still managed to always get Lil' John and the East Side Boys' song Get Low stuck in his head.

et's get ready to rumble! December 21st, 2005 marked the day of JFK's winter rally and also the last day of the year that the students saw each other before the new year began. Students from all classes anticipated the end of the day because that meant gathering into the gym to watch what the rally had in store. "I couldn't wait for the rally. I wanted to get out of class and just be in the gym with everyone, plus, we were out after for vacation," stated Joel Wong (06). Although the rally was short noticed and pushed back a week from the set date, it brought forth a sense of goodbye for the year 2005 and a welcome for the new 2006. "During the rally, not everyone realized, but that was when we'd all see each other before we all come back in January. The rally was ok, but everything felt like it was ending. We'll just see what's in store for 2006," said Michael Gaw (06). Even more, the rally introduced the school's top notch varsity winter sport teams: Basketball, Wrestling, Soccer, and Varsity Cheerleading. With the introduction of the different sports, excitement grew over the players as each one of them were called to be recognized. Chelsea Nichols (07) commented, "I thought it was cool how they called our names. It was the first time I was recognized so I felt awesome." Go Kennedy! These lady Titans know school spirit. Through their hardwork over the summer and after school, they were all recognized for their labor.

The aroma of tar quickly entered our nose as we walked onto campus. Changing classrooms was sometimes hectic and seemed pointless because the roofs leaked and flooded newly redone classrooms. But all in all the transformation of our school also reached into many changes in the students and administration. In years before the 2005-2006 school year, Titan Pride decreased, but with the rebuilding of the school came the rejuvenating of school spirit. "I think the renovations look good and everything will make everyone have more school spirit," said Roy Camillo (07). Our principal was changed from Mrs. Paratore to Mr. Kuns and our whole administration had people added or others promoted. The transformation sent a flood of hope through all the students and staff. James Martinez (06) stated, "The new paint job adds a new look to the school; a new look on our schools reputation."

Mr. and Mrs. Martinez are two similar people that are one of a kind, but after all they are mother and son, and maybe it is true what they say the apple doesn't fall from the tree. They both find humor in everything. They can make anything fun. I guess people could say that they both influence each others life. "He is so much like my father was, he is just the kind of person that is fun to be around" stated Mrs. Martinez. They are both willing to fix and learn from their mistakes. "I treat students like people, and not like products that I'm producing," said Mr. Martinez. You can bet your bottom dollar that if you get either Mr. or Mrs. "Tinez", your in for an unforgetable experience.

Fresh meat! The freshmen had kept the upper classmen on their toes the whole year round. Angel Guzman stated, "Seriously, our class kicked butt during the rally. I think that the girls looked really good, and we surprised the whole school." Not only did the freshmen do surprisingly well in the rally, but they had amazed some of their teachers with knowing what they wanted for their future and showing how hard they were willing to work towards getting it. "Yeah, the classes that I'm taking will help me get into a 4-year college, and right now my GPA is a 3.2," stated Almas Gichki. Without the freshmen our school wouldn't have been the same. They brought unique styles and taste, "I think that without us school would be so boring! We bring excitement and new things to the table! Class of 09 is the best," stated Taylor McElavain.

Sophomeres

When people think about sophomore year, they think, "Two more years and we're out." But students have to think of it more like the time to think of their future; what their interested in and mostly their-*+++ credits. "I'm just trying to get through sophomore year with passing grades," stated Stephanie Montantes. The sophomores were a very intelligent class and were going to go somewhere in their lives. "Not only grades were on my mind but also friends," explained Judith Guzman. Subject: World History Teacher: Ms. Calvert Grade: 10th

Review:

"Ms. Clavert and having friends in the class makes World History fun. We do many projects. Our final project is making our own country." With the project of making up their own country, the students were able to make up their own government, cities and country names. It was a good experience for the students, to have a class that was always full of surprises.

"From what everybody says, it's ghetto, but I think it's just as normal as any other school. It has normal teachers and gross lunches."

Christine Graham

"Well from my point of view, I think that our school isn't that great because the sports aren't the best, and I dont think the education is all that special either, but the people are really nice and that makes it fun."

Sean Christenson

"First I think the classes are too long. There aren't a lot of plants so I would want to put lots of pretty flowers to liven up the school. I think that the school's colors are really off, and they just don't mix."

Juniors

Finally juniors made it through their toughest year of high school. Some students weren't prepared for the challenges that junior year brought. "Everyone expected so much from me I felt really stressed out," said Nehal Quaraishi. Other than academics, juniors' third year of high school was an experience they will always remember. Just one more year and they will be graduating and starting a new life. Krystal Kwartz said the thought about graduating gives her butterflies in her stomach. "I am nervous, but I am also very happy to get out of high school."

Briana McCarty and Kelcee Roney never missed a chance to have fun and laugh with their friends during lunchtime. "Lunch is just a time to have a fun time and hang with your friends," said Roney.

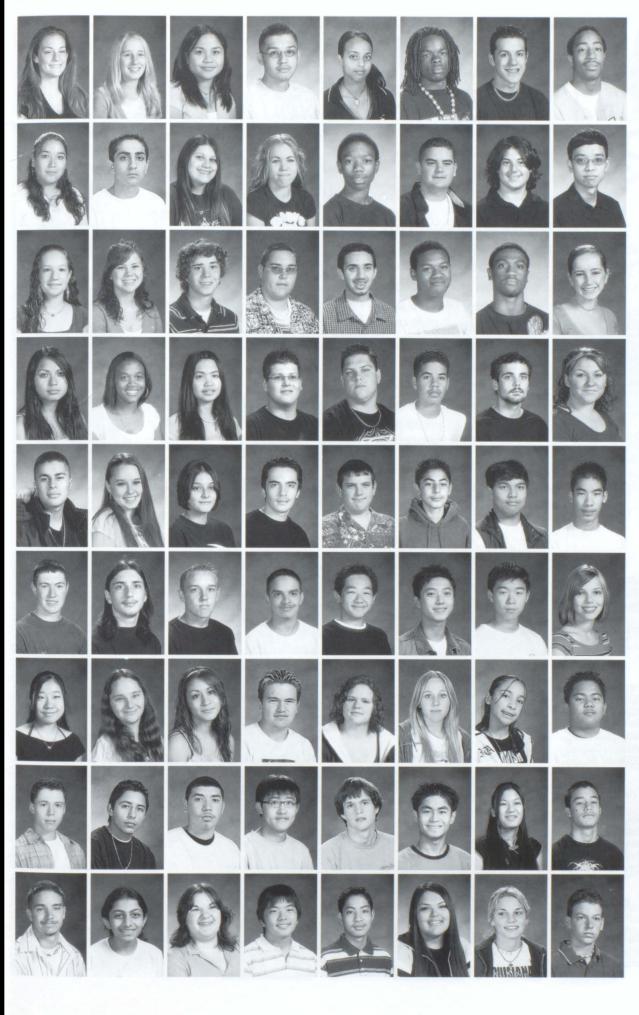

Krystal Kwartz praticed for her multi-cultural week dance. "I want to be very involved in my schools rallyies this year and have fun with it too," said Kwartz.

"This year was a really fun year for me. Football season was my favorite time of the year because the team worked together and had a good time playing," said Nehal Quaraishi.

"An open campus allows more freedom for the students.lt let's us go to other places close to school. It also allows us to get healthier food than the school has to offer; Subway for example."

Marshal Rawlinson

"I prefer to have an open campus, because if I forget something I can just go home. Also, it's not so constraining. Being able to leave campus offers a lot more variety on food selection."

Jennifer Brennan

"An open campus is so much better, because we get to go anywhere we want. The open campus privileges are one of the things I liked about Kennedy. It allows me to get away, even just for a bit."

Seniors

Having authority over the underclassmen was the prerogative that all classes have envied; it was now the turn for the class of 2006. It finally meant graduating and leaving the world of high school behind. Esther Lee stated, "I can't wait to go! High school has been fun but college will be better." Through the friendships, drama, failures, and success, the senior class have all learned to dwell on what they've learned from the past and look forward to the future. "I don't know what lies ahead for me, but I know I'm prepared for what's to come in college," commented Robert Lira. When it all came down to it, senior year was most memorable. From the stress of picking colleges and fearful experience of the applications, senior year was the year never to be forgotten.

It isn't the size of the dog in the fight; it's the size of the fight in the dog. Being the smallest school in the district, Kennedy proved this saying to be true. What the teams lacked in size, they made up for in heart and hard work. Whether it was out on a field or inside a gym, you would never see a lack of effort coming from the Titans, showing the other teams Kennedy was not a school to be looked down upon. "The Titans have spirit. They push until the end. Every team makes this school proud, whether they win or not," said Coach Mike. The endless practices, injuries, and disappointments never outweighed the good times and accomplishments all the teams shared together. Every athlete was proud to sport the purple and gold, and show everyone that our school had what it took to be considered a strong competitor. "Once you play a sport for your school you're dedicated for life, you'd do anything to defend and bring pride to it," said Bryce Rocklage (07). Athletes came in all shapes and sizes, different races, different interests, and different capabilities. but no matter what the differences were, they all had one very important thing in common... they were proud to be Fighting Titans!

Breaking through to the next half of the game, the titans get ready to hear hundreds of adoring fans as they run onto the field.

Clash Of The Titans

Everyone was part of the football games, in one-way or another, whether it was the fans sitting in the stands rooting for the Titans while stuffing their faces with hot dogs, the cheerleaders screaming out K-E-N-N-E-D-Y, or the team, out on the field playing optimistically. The real question was, how do the football players feel, what motivated them to keep on going. "When you're on the field you get this rush, its a feeling like no other, and nothing else matters," said Gabriel Lambey (06). The Titans showed their dedication and determination to the game by never giving up, no matter what obstacles there were. They had a slow start in the beginning of the season but then made a valiant comeback when they beat Newark. "I knew we'd be able to do it. Our team had what it takes and we showed it every time. I'm glad that we just got to show everyone that we could be winners, " said Kyle Preddy (07). Titan pride became apparent when the crowds came to support their team, "As a fan, I think it is very important to show our support for the team, " said Amanda Morrison (06). Later on in the season all of the hope and spirit that the fans, cheerleaders. and players had shown paid off, as the Titans pushed it to the max and made a spectacular show at the Mission game. This season was full of surprises, spirit, and hope but there was one thing that was truly apparent, the Titans had made us all proud.

Remember

The Titans

The crowd's cheers drowned through the stands, pom-poms waved through the air, pride swelled through their chests. The team yelled, "Go Titans!" Many people thought of football as a mere sport meant for leisurely recreation, but for the J.V. Kennedy Titans it's a passion, a brotherhood, "We feel as though we have a strong connection with one another, we look out for each other on the field and off," stated Roy Camillo (07). Joints may sprain and bones may break, but the dedication never cracked. Endless hours of hard work and practice were apparent once the team steped out on the field; victory or defeat, giving up was not on their agenda. "Whether we win or lose, we know we tried our hardest and that's all that matters," exclaimed Billy Setzekorn (08). Many have dreams of making it to the big leagues, but for others it's mostly about the adrenaline rush that came with playing. "We have to believe to achieve and we try our hardest to achieve our goals," stated Labarian Wallie (07). It was not the fame or fortune, it was the joy for the sport that gave them the drive for that one extra yard.

As Chelsey Ryker (07) finishes her cheer, she remembers she has to keep the Titan spirit up. "Rallying is a key element of cheerleading because it pumps up the crowd."

"Out of cheers and chants, I would have to say that cheer's are my favorite because we're actually saying specific words for different moves," explains Lenne Ruiz

For not being a competitive cheerleading squad, it was a very difficult task to practice like they were one. Practices three days out of the week for three months during the summer was tiring, but the outcome was very successful. "In the beginning of the year, I didn't think practices were going to be that difficult, but in the end I was thankful they were because they developed the teams skills and my skils as well," stated Brittany Sgroi (09). With only nine girls on Varsity and fifteen on Junior Varsity, it was a set back when even one girl would miss a practice. "Practices are pretty hard, and it puts more pressure on us to do better when we're missing a few girls, but once we get to the game it's all worth it and we just have fun!" exclaimed Isabel Duarte (08). The girls looked forward to showing off what they had accomplished during practice at the games every weekend, which were the highlights of the cheerleading season. Even without competitions the cheerleaders found other ways to come together as a team with events such as poster parties and banquets to prepare for Football and Basketball. "I enjoy Basketball season a lot because the crowd is closer to us and I feel they are more involved with us," said Margaret Thompson (06). Cheering all year round took a lot of time and effort from the practices to their great performances at games, but everything came together in the end.

Captain Matthew Stemm (06) stated, "The thought of beating someone in the race and winning the race keeps me motivated." Motivation was the key to successfully completing and winning a race, and Coach Al was a big part of each runner's motivation to keep running. Tony Pachero (09) expressed, "My coach motivates me by telling me I can do it." The Cross Country team all had their minds set on a great year, along with individual goals each runner wanted to achieve. One common goal that the whole team shared was to beat their personal record. To achieve their individual goals each person had their own strategy. Captain Christopher Russett (07) said, "At the start of my race, I take off fast with the leading pack, then I settle myself into a comfortable pace. When approaching the finish line, I gradually pick up my speed to finish with an all-out sprint. I focus on keeping up my speed and shooting for a new personal record."

Of course, running two to three miles was what the Cross Country team did everyday, but it was much more than that. It took endurance, dedication, determination, heart

Nothing But Net

Basketball; a sport made of agility, accuracy, and teamwork. Every foul counted, a charge down the court or a slap of fingertips on the wrist mattered. Every player was an important aspect of the team. Each one brought something different to the court, whether it was speed, a nice shot, or a block. The team was like a family, each player had an important role to play. As put by Simir Bath (06), "You have to have chemistry with your teammates to function, and if one player fails then the whole team would fail." The basketball players had it very difficult, they had a name and expectations to live up to. "The team looks good, but they know they're going to have to rebuild after last year's great season. I'm sure they can do it," said Martin Saldivar (07). The Titans practiced every day. Blood, sweat, and tears were lost just to prepare for two games a week. When it was finally game time the Titans warmed up and listened to music to get the adrenaline flowing. With the basketball season came true dedicated fans. In the stands the shouting fans could be heard cheering for the team. Everyone who supported was important, parents, siblings, friends, or girlfriends, they were there for one cause; the basketball team. The team knew they had big shoes to fill but they definitely stepped up and made Kennedy proud.

Getting in the Game

They might have not been the Golden State Warriors, but they definitely dribbled, shot, and scored their way to stardom. In order to gain their skills the team had practices during the summer to insure that they could be the best. "Practicing over the summer with the team allowed me to play with them better during the actual season," said Kyle Hill (09). It was hard work for the guys, but it paid off considering the respect they got from their peers. As easy as throwing a ball into a hoop for points may seem, playing basketball was anything but a walk in the park. "Competition, stress from coaches and peers, and overall worrying about a perfect performance was really difficult for us to handle," said Michael Obergfell (08). However, they managed to overcome what difficulties they had and always played an impressive game. "Winning was always fun and losing was a bummer, but all in all, going to the games and watching the teams play was one factor that showed the spirit that we had," said Heather Mintz (09). As our J.V. and freshmen teams, they still put their skills to good use, won a few, lost a few, and kept the crowd pumped.

Erika Edwards (09) tries to keep the ball as far away from the opposing player as possible. "I just keep my eye on where I'm going and I don't let anyone stop me," stated Edwards.

Reaching as high as she can, Ashley Nahale (08) grabs the ball and takes it to the hoop gaining her team another two points.

The sweet sounds of shoes squeaking, buzzers ringing, and crowds cheering filled the gym during every game. "Hearing people cheer for us made me more excited and pumped for the game, It also made me feel like the audience really supported us," said Erika Edwards (09). Both Varsity and J.V. played the whole season with determination, and hoped to make the year their very best. The Lady Titans succeeded in making the season filled with fun and excitement. "We bonded and it helped a lot because we achieved more than we hoped for," said Jessica Vega (08). The success required a lot of teamwork and dedication. A strong defense, fast offense and a new line up of Varsity and J.V. players created a better team atmosphere for the ladies. As team captains, Laquivia Evans (06) and Kayla Burl (06) led the team. The team trusted them to make the right decisions for them. "Laquivia and Kayla are excellent captains, they are good players and know how to make good choices," said Ashley Abadia (07). Even though they suffered a couple losses, they still tried their hardest and had no regrets. They played a good season and had an exciting time doing it.

Minutes before the game the Titans stepped onto the field. When the whistle blew, the game plan went into action. Players thought about what they needed to accomplish to defeat their opponent. "I hope to play good and to win the game as a team," stated Jonathan Terry (08). The team had been improving every season with more shots on goal and a better defensive line. With dedication the Titans had earned their way to more victories. The improvement started with hard work at every practice. Christopher Salazar (09) said, "We run and condition daily for about an hour at practice. The second half of practice is my favorite part because we get to scrimmage each other." With a whole new outlook they began the season with a new coach and fresh, new talent. The team had bonded over the years by hanging out on and off the soccer field. "I like to hangout with my teammates out of soccer. We like to talk about the last game we played and what we can do to improve," said Issac Lee (07). They had to have willpower to play because major and minor injuries happened daily. Endurance and determination were the keys that unlocked a Titan victory.

Achieving Their Goals

Rain, nor shine, nor defeat could stop the soccer girls from trying hard and improving their skills. The season started off great because more people with new talent tried out for the team. First year, Adrienne Stewart (09), stated that she loved being a goalie (she was 1st in the league for most saves) because she was able to help improve the team. Adrienne said, "Being a goalie is becoming more fun because our team is improving, actually communicating, and we have more teamwork." Parent support for the soccer team increased which led to soccer players working harder. "When the parents got involved, the kids started taking things seriously and set their minds to becoming better," stated Coach Dave Acker. "It's good for us to bond because it helps us play better on the field by being more cooperative with each other," said Ashley Gallagher (09). In order to have more teamwork and increased communication, the soccer girls spent time with each other after hours, went to dinner together, and passed around a spirit ball all season. The soccer team may not have won all of their games, but they paved the road for future wins.

Fighting through injuries and disappointments, the boys' volleyball team kept their spirits and efforts high to make the season a strong one. It being only the second year Kennedy had a boys' volleyball team, the players were prepared to work hard and show everyone that this fact did not make them a second-class team. The long hours of practice and hard work were evident when the boys came together as a unit on the court. "We've really learned to work together and rely on each other during our matches," said William Harrison (08). Getting a jump-start on the other teams in the league, the team participated in tournaments around the Bay Area to enhance their teamwork and improve their skills. "I'm excited to start this season, we're all working hard and I have a good feeling about it," stated Son Hoang (06). Even dedicating some of their Saturdays to practice, the boys were willing to give their all to the sport. Not only were the boys teammates, they were friends. With the guidance of their two coaches they were able to finish the season successfully, and have fun at the same time.

Yessenia Guzman (09) gets into the position to pass set the ball to one of her hitters, with that becoming the winning point.

With all the new players coming in and trying out, the Girls Volleyball Team had fun, expanded and improved. Some girls, like Kayla Abadia (09) said, "At first I wasn't really into volleyball, but after a few practices, I was able to play well." There were a lot of improvements for the team this year, Erin Carscaden (09) said, "I was looking forward to the volleyball season because I was able to see my friends from other schools." Varsity had this to say about the new players: Ashley Nahale (08) said, "I thought that the new players like Courtney Fine (Junior Varsity team) and Angel French (Varsity team) were great additions to our team. "Ashley Abadia (07) said "I thought the we had an awsome new player, Angel French. She has been a great add on to our team." Also as a team, Varsity showed some great promise for the season. They won some of the matches they played. The other matches Varsity came really close to winning, but narrowly missed the opening. With all of the improvements and promises made by the team the season was a great success.

counted 1.... 2.... 3... Kennedy won the match! The crowd went wild! With smiling faces, the team rejoiced in a well-deserved victory! "It's great being captain of the Titan's wrestling team, we're all so close and it shows in our performances," said Robert Chartier (07). Many people viewed wrestling as a contact sport and as it was on television, like Smackdown and Monday night Raw. With those impressions in their heads, wrestling was considered an extremely dangerous sport. What society may not have realized is that T.V. was all entertainment. "Wrestling can be a really dangerous sport, but we trained hard to prevent serious injuries. True wrestling is about countering the opponent's moves and being as safe as possible," said Tevita Taufalele (06). After such a wonderful season, the team prepared for next year and the ways they could improve in order to go all the way to nationals. "We did great this season, but we could have done much better. I know with more practice and determination, we could go all the way to the top," stated Joshua Blanca (07). No matter how many times the Titans were taken to the mat they always got back up on their feet and were ready for the next challenge.

The fans bought their peanuts and Cracker Jacks as they held their breath in suspense watching another heart pounding softball game. For it was "root, root, root" for the Titans, if they win it was a thrill. It was the bottom of the ninth inning with two outs and the bases were loaded. The Titan's pitcher was at the mound signaling to the catcher that she was going to throw a curve ball. For it was one, two, three strikes and the pitcher threw another player out of the old softball game. The Titan's had won another game making their season even stronger. The Lady Titans had a strong bond with hard work and team building. The team had bonded together over the season by hanging out on and off the softball field. Delia Torres stated, "On Fridays at lunch we have team picnics were each person brings something to eat for everyone." With dedication the Titans had earned their way to more victories. The improvement started with hard work at every practice. "At practice we always do infield and outfield work. We also do team bonding by learning how to work together," said Ashlee Sudaria. The Lady Titans played the season with great willpower as they fought through victories and defeats.

Sprinting to the Finish

Behind the huge sand cloud filling the air was the Titans track and field team. The teams practiced everyday for at least two hours a day. There were many different events to choose from; such as shot put, discus throw, relays, hurdles, and many more. "I do shot put, discus throw and hurdles. It's so much fun and I'm excited that they're having a girls hurdlers team this year," said Karen Trost (07). The coaches had a very hard decision on who to choose as overall captains, but the final result was Lauren Acker (07) and Miguel Posadas (06). "It's important for me to be the team captain because as a senior I feel I have an example to set," said Miguel Posadas. Being on track and field took a lot of hard work and dedication. Students needed to be physically and mentally fit during competition. It was not only hard work but also very fun. "I love track and field. It's an exciting sport and I enjoy running. Plus it helps me get faster so I can win!" exclaimed Chris Delegos (07). Everyone on the team did their best to help in each event they competed in. The track and field team had a great season.

Make a splash, Get there Fast

Under the leadership of Coach Bridges, the computer operations teacher at Kennedy, the swim team had a positive attitude towards the new season. "Coach always corrects us with an encouraging attitude," said Sean Calopy (09). Along with encouragement the coach brought a new diet and new routines and drills. Michelle Diaz (06), a senior member of the team, said, "This year has been exhausting compared to previous years, but I never feel like giving up." For warm-ups the team usually started with three 200s, which is 24 consecutive laps. The swimmers also needed to stay strong mentally with determination and confidence. "When I'm swimming I like to think of a song and sing it so I keep my mind off the fact that I am tired," said Julie Choi (08). Swimming is a sport that uses all of the muscles in the body, which is what makes it so different than most other sports. The sport is an individual sport and a team sport in one, but both ways the goal is the same; to swim fast and legally. "This year I can tell we will do a lot better then the previous years, with the help of the new coach and the new swimmers; I am excited to see what will happen," said Anthony Rust (07). The year was definitely a success from start to finish.

"Our new coach really cares about the succes of the swim team and the success of Kennedy as a whole."

"Since our team is bigger than its ever been, I like the fact that we might have a chance of winning.

What do you like most about the team this year?

Julie Choi (08)

As Courtney Fine (08) starts out her 100 yard Individual Medley (IM) with butterfly, she remembers to tuck her head in as she breathes.

"Out of all the strokes, freestyle is my favorite because it is the most simple and you can go really fast while doing it," said Jessica Baez (07).

At the Township relays Rachel Ross (07) competes in her specialty event, the 200 yard backstroke race. This particular race was a relay that required four participants to swim 50 yards each.

During a butterfly drill, Coach Bridges made the swimmers kick over the lane lines just to get their technique right.

Coach Bridges reads over the nutrition plan with the team as he emphasizes eating right and staying healthy.

Waiting patiently for his match to begin, Troy Pandhumsoporn (08) thinks over his techniques and motions for the play. As Andrew Cho (08) carefully watches the ball flying over the net, he gets into position to smack it right back over.

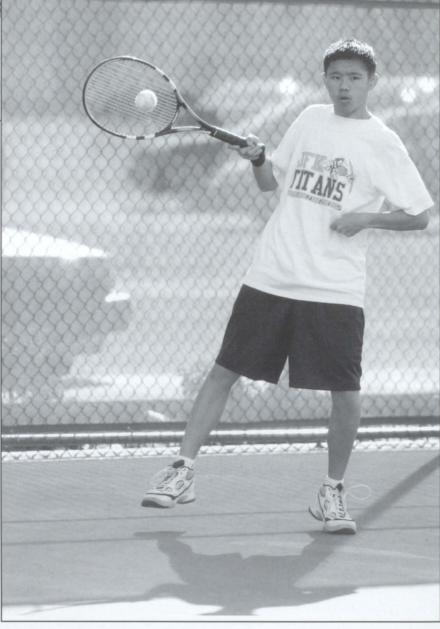

"Warming up in the beginning of practice is extremely important because we need to know what and how to do a techinque before the match begins," explained Nhattuc Nguyen (08).

While being asked about playing singles or doubles, Kenny Dokko (07) explains "I really like playing singles because I feel more confident."

How does tennis compare to other physical contact sports?

Mustafa Mujitaba

"In tennis you have to have more agility, awarness and more quickness not speed."

Eshandeep Boparos (07) perfers to play doubles rather than sinlges. "In doubles, there is a lot more excitment and action and we dont have to move up and down the court as much."

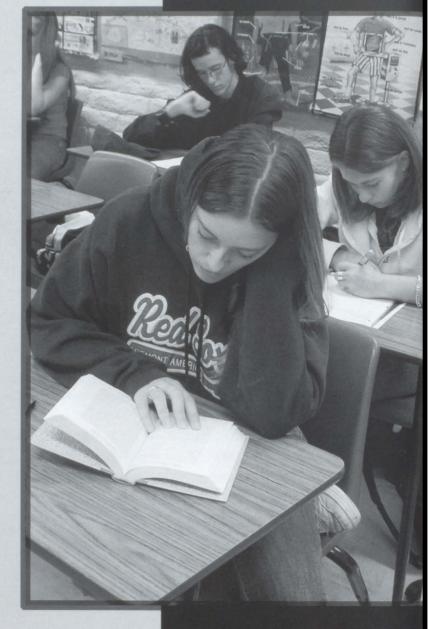

Tennis may not have seemed like a tough sport, but in reality it was. These players had put a lot of hard work, determination, and dedication into the team. With a new coach, eight newcomers, and only two returners, these boys had to work extra hard. "Our new coach is awesome, and is easy to learn from. Yes, he can be hard at times, but in a way it's a good thing. He does expect a lot from us, but all it is is to try hard and to never give up, "explained Lerry Liu (08). With so many newcomers, the coach had a lot on his plate. "We pretty much put everyday in shock treatment. They worked hard and improved greatly. They are on a top secret mission," said Coach Patton. So what could we really expect with this "top secret" mission? "We can't give out any information about the mission with out giving it away, you will just have to see and find out by the end of the season," explained Andrew Cho (08). Whether it was tennis season or not, you could have always found someone out in the courts practicing their swings and serves, and smacking the ball. "I always played a little rally with my brother to prepare for the season, or I would come to school and hit the ball aginst the wall, I also ran three miles everyday to work on my technique and speed, "said Viet Nguyen (07). Overall the players felt they came togehter as a team, and the team work was present during their matches.

Courting for Success

The school bell rang as the students rushed down hallways to their new classes, trying to find the right rooms, correct teachers, and exact courses; this was the beginning of the new school year. Students dealt with changing classrooms in the middle of the semester, but they always looked forward to attending one amusing class, their elective; students chose these classes themselves and they were fun and exciting. Some popular elective programs included foreign language, woods, and ROP. "Photo 1 was pretty cool, but there was a lot more work than I thought there would be," said Andrea Ramsamy (08). Besides the fun electives, students also had to take the challenging core classes: math, science, history, English, and physical education. New teachers who had their own styles of teaching taught many of the core classes, and students had to adjust to these changes. Like the new renovation of the school, some teachers even had a new class added to their schedule; one of the classes was AP Statistics. "The class is going great and the students work very hard; I expect them to do well on the upcoming AP test," Mr. Butler commented. Although core classes seemed boring, they were a new challenge and triggered the knowledge of one's creative mind. Spread by: Veronica Wu

The ford To Success

Have you ever wondered what math and science meant and what they were for? Math and science together had highly developed ideas that people used in their daily lives. Our school provided a great science and math department, for which students learned the basic concepts of each subject. For instance, technology, as we understood, entailed the application of scientific knowledge to develop tools and solve problems; in other words, working with complicated numbers. We had more than a dozen problems in every sector of our national life that needed immediate solutions. Herold Cabanban (09) stated, "It is the reason why life is so much better than it used to be, with mathematics and science made mutually, I've enjoyed chatting, internet browsing, TV, and everything that had to do with technology." Whether it was math or science, it was all-around and something everyone could learn and understand. The subjects were needed to teach students scientific concepts in order to prepare them for university-based degrees. Science and math required detailed conscious observations, measurements, exploration, and analysis. "The hardest thing about science was memorizing all the equations and formulas." said senior, Freshta Hassabi (06). Students thought that math was very challenging but they rarely thought about the use of those "boring" numbers in their futures.

WHAT MAKES MATH SCIENCE DIFFICULT?

HISTORY

One class can be your past, present, and future all at the same time. The benefits of History class were infinite for the students of J.F.K. this year. "World History class taught me about my country and what my people went through to get to where they are now," stated Armando Cervantes (07). Doing projects helped students further their knowledge about what their ancestors went through. "An essay I wrote about immigrants made me really thankful that I was born here," said Najla Nawabi (07). But, why was history so important? "U.S. History was important to study so that we could learn from our mistakes, and not make them in the future," said Christopher Russett (07). History class helped students gain knowledge about the hardships their country faced, and they also learned how privileged they were to live in the United States. "I have more opportunities for education and occupation in California. Although there was freedom in Mexico, we didn't have the best jobs and schools," said Juan Angel (06). It is true that we had better opportunities here in the United States. History gave people pride to know about their country. We, as students, can change the world with our knowledge, we just have to use it right.

Bounjour, hola, and hello. The languages of cultures blended at the Kennedy Campus. Students learned french, spanish and above all how to speak english correctly. As teachers expected us to have written more and more essays, students groaned and complained just as much. Ramon Solorzano (07) said, "Essays are by far the hardest part of English, the easiest is grammar." A day in Spanish class was hard for Jessica Baez (07). "It was really hard to remember what I learned from freshman year," Jessica expressed. Students were required to read more than a thousand pages a semester on top of reading books required by the school district. Most students at Kennedy enjoyed outside reading because it let them explore new books. Amanda McKean (09) expressed, "We should have outside reading because I enjoy reading and exploring new books." Many students feel that we should have had a more broad selection of foreign language classes. Shawn Megofna (06) said, "Our school should have more choices of foreign languages, such as Italian and Chinese." AP English was a way for students to challenge their reading, writing, and grammar skills. According to Kharren Co (06), "The academics are hard for AP." Teachers all had different expectations for their students. When asked what she wanted her students to achieve, Mrs. Warren stated, "To become a better writer and to read more books." Reading and writing were the main focuses in English classes throughout the school.

Have you ever thought of bringing a video camera to school? Or a musical instrument? Many students in our school had brought their own video cameras or musical instruments to school because they took a fine art class. Most students thought fine arts was just a requirement, but on the other hand, one had more freedom and learn different techniques. "I learned about different types of equipment and the techniques to make a video. Even though I didn't choose video, I was glad I took the class," said Dhruv Marwha (08). Students in video class could make their own videos and clips; they also learned many techniques to make a good video. Many students found the most interesting subjects in their fine arts classes, and found them surprisingly fun. "Ceramics is the best. This class made me feel like a kid when I was working with the clay," said Jessica Andrews (06). In ceramics, students could express their ideas using clay. Besides ceramics, our school provided many other great fine art programs such as art and photo. For some students, fine arts gave them another career choice. Some people took fine arts for other purposes. When asked why Nicole Flores (07) liked band, she replied "I played clarinet for eight years and I liked band because it was a fun and interesting challenge. It was also something to fall back on for a music scholarship." Students discovered their talents and interests from fine arts and it gave them a new class to look forward to.

TECHNOLOGY FIIPPING SWITCHES

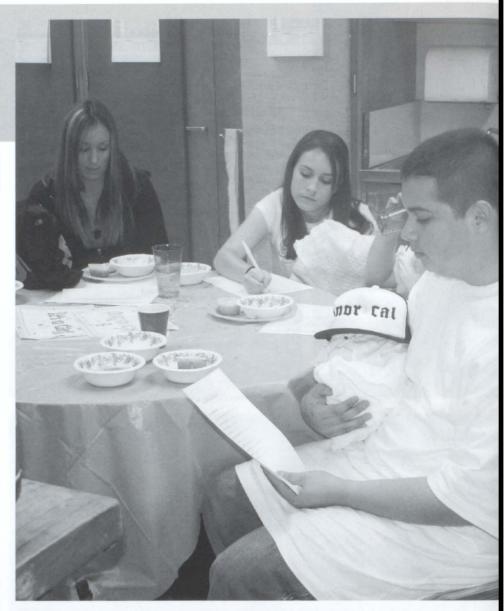

We have come a long way sine the 1980's. Now everybody is about bigger, better, and faster; Bigger bank accounts, better clothes, and faster cars. Without the growth of technology people would not have had Internet shopping, or have a way of ordering the material for clothing. In the beginning of the school year, the band and choir performed at Walters Junior High. "We performed at Walters to give the junior high kids a better understanding of the different kind of music we play," said Jennifer Brennan (07).

The audience waited in anticipation as Mr. Sterling tapped his baton on the music stand. The musicians sat nervously in their seats as they thought about being in class and preparing for their big performance. "As I sat there, I felt excited and anxious. In class, we have the chance to go over our parts separately, but when you're waiting to perform, there's no chance to make a mistake," commented Tara Alinaya (08), a Soprano in Chamber Chorale. When a concert came along, there was always a different energy coming from both the students and Mr. Sterling. "Sometimes things would have to be changed and perfected the last minute, but the groups always ended up pulling through," said Mr. Sterling, the conductor of Beginning Band and Choir, Symphonic Band, Chamber Chorale, and Jazz Band. Although Mr. Sterling taught all of the classes by himself, there was always a little something that'd separate each group. "For Beginning Band and Choir, the students learned how to read music and how to cooperate with one another; with Symphonic Band and Chamber Chorale, the students already had experience, so it was easier to read new music, and more songs could be played; Jazz Band was just a fun class that students liked to join because of the freedom, style, and solos in the songs," Mr. Sterling added. Throughout the year, the band and choir performed at numerous occasions. such as the Winter Concert, an assembly at Walters Junior High, and at the competition in Disneyland. These performances were not only fun to be a part of, but also boosted up the students' courage to perform in public.

Samantha Wredberg (08) of Chamber Chorale felt that students should cooperate in order to succeed. "I thought we did pretty good at the Winter Concert, but could've been better."

Athough the class sang all the songs together, they still had time to practice individually. "Mr. Sterling helped us improve by taking each section and focusing on each group's part until we pretty much got it down," explained Marshal Rawlinson (07).

"Being in our school band has really improved my skills, and everybody knows that girls like guys with great skills!" exclaims David Grimm (08), who played the trumpet in Symphonic Band.

"My group and I chose math for our project because we are all good at it and we wanted to teach people," said Hao Zhou. Many groups chose topics that they enjoyed and people can relate to.

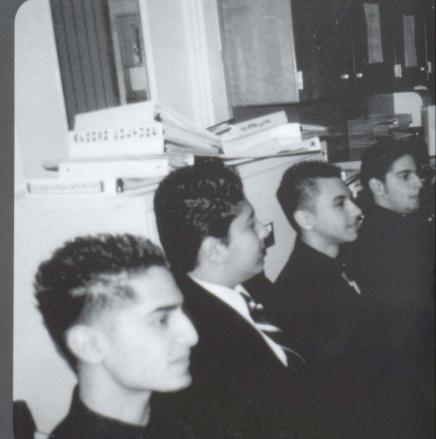

"Senior Project was overall easy, my group and I did a good job together. I'm sad to see it all end," said Bridget Ford.

"In this class, we used basically everything we have learned during our four years here," said Qaise Hamid (06). Everyone thought differently about taking senior project, or just the class in general. For some, senior project was dreadful and a waste of time. Others thought it was helpful and a good experience. Senior project was about teamwork and cooperation, it taught others responsibility and working with other and skills for future jobs . "This class has taught me how to work with people well," stated Saumya Rai (06). Senior project helped students build confidence to talk to groups of people too. The teachers were always there to give a helping hand to the students in need and in those in need of guidance. They taught seniors how to build websites and present to clients in a well-dressed manner. "Inever knew how to make a website until Mrs. Kamalnathan showed me," commented Jawad Said (06). It was all hard work but it paid off in the end. Everything came together and it was a breeze. In the end, despite all the bickering and hard work, students finally realized their true potential and the senior class was well on their way.

While giving her presentation, Diana Suarez tells the class how drugs affected people. "My group picked drugs because it's a subject a lot of students relate to," exlaimed Suarez.

HARMONY ET CULTURES

Performing for the Afghan club, Menna Hosmany (07) had this to say about the rally, "I've never practiced so hard for international week!"

Full concentration. Yessenia Lopez (09) and her partner Antolino Ureno (07) danced to represent L.U.P.S. Friday in the gym. "It was all exciting," she said."

did not matter what culture you believed in, the religion you practiced, or beliefs you observed, international week was the time of the year when students and teachers alike gathered to celebrate each others heritage and diversity. International week was the time of the year when most of the cultural clubs on campus gathered and showcased what or how their culture was like. The all clubs commissioner Madina Omar (07) had this to say, "This year was somewhat stressful and I was very new to the position. At first, I didn't know what to do, literally, but I was taught and I got it all together; it was successfull." With the performances out in the quad during the entire week and ending with the rally that Friday, the performers too had to sacrifice a little. Practices were held prior to each day the clubs performed and before the big rally. "Practices were held starting Tuesday, Wednesday, last run through was Thursday when we all had to perfect it. We all knew we needed to give a great performance, " stated Karrmen Tshing (07). All in all, international week brought forth spirits of unity within everyone. For next year's performers, start early and end great!

The Polynesian club started the week off with their dance, performed by Michelee Hoomalu (09) shown left. "That was cool," she stated.

Tuesday, United Hip Hop battled Da Squad to help pump up the rally that Friday. Wednesday, L.U.P.S. rendered a traditional performance from the Mexican culture.

Can-can. It took days of practicing for the can-can group to perfect their performance before the rally. Trang Nguyen (08) said, "We all kept messing up and changing, but in the end we all got through it and finished."

Ray Armstrong (06) showed off his dance moves for the crowd during the lunch rally on Tuesday.

> Time management was the key concept for Nicolle Ochoa (06) who was in three of the dances.

"We all should know that diversity makes for a rich tapestry, and we must understand that all the threads of the tapestry are equal in value no matter what their color."

"We can't wait for next year's rally!" exclaimed Hela Hassani (08) and Hasib Taeb (07) shown above. "It's really nice to see how everyone's different because we learn from each other," said Hassani,

" The practices were kind of hard to learn, and even though we were nervous the rally was really fun, " commented Perry Shellshear (07) shown above as they performed a Tahitian number. "Oh, and our costume for the dance wasn't that difficult to find as well," he joked.

Belonging in Da Squad, Stephen Matthews (08) shown left battled Dario Slavazza (07) when it came time for their club to perform. "It was all about showing what you've got," both staed.

Thursday, the Indian club got their shot in performing in the quad. Vinny Jhaj (06) and Anubhav Chopra (06) stated, "It was all hard work with the practices and everything but it was all fun and worth it in the end."

"The rally was good and all the different cultures were united. I had to learn the dance in only a few days time but it was all worth it," stated Tiffany White (06).

As Jeff Loya (07) sits down to help a student, he reflects on what he likes about being a Peer Advocate. "It's a great feeling knowing you are helping someone everyday."

"I thought that the teachers had it on the students. We should have won! The Peer Advocates did a great job trying to bring respect to the school," said Mr. Yee.

Peer Advocates may not have had Dr. Phil's credentials, but they definitely helped students with their problems. Students may not have always been able to confide in their friends with their personal problems, so having had a peer advocate to listen to students benefited them greatly. "I always use the skills I have learned in my daily life. It always makes my day run smoother," said third year Peer Advocate Stephanie Martinez (06). Although peer advocates seemed like just another elective, it proved to be a challenging class, but there was still time to have fun in the process. "It's what we do. We have fun doing projects, but it is a lot of work planning them," said second year Peer Advocate Jasmine Grady (07). Sometimes the Peer Advocates got 1 to 2 students a week seeking help, but they always had at least one permanent person who they helped continuously. Mrs. Roberts, the Peer Advocate advisor, put a lot of her time and dedication into helping the Peer Advocates achieve their own goals of the class. To end the class on a positive note, she would gather the Peer Advocates and have each person say something good about one another. Even though they may not have met the the standards of a licensed therapist, they came through and were as close to it as possible. The Peer Advocates definitely made a great impact on campus.

"Wer'e not allowed to give advice, we are just here to talk to , and help the counselee find their own resolution," said Stephanie Bauhofer (06) who was one of the main speakers at Mrs. Roberts. teacher student basketball game.

"The Peer Advocates go through 2 years of training. Their first year they have to go through 3 1/2 months of team building, then they earn council badges," said

"I am a level 2 Peer Advocate, and I still want to continue doing this class until I graduate. I feel it will benefit me in college," said Vicente Barriga (07), as he finishes up advising one of his peers.

Standing out. Lisa Cao (08) reads the sophomore updates as a fill in for that day. "ASB is a good way to meet other students and I enjoy being here," Cao stated.

Jennifer Brennan (07) takes notes and prepares herself for topics to discuss at the meeting. "It's difficult sometimes to lead but you do what you have to do." she said.

What did ASB mean to you? To some it was a way to meet new people. To others it was a way to even participate in school activities, and some weren't aware of what ASB was. ASB, the Associated Student Body, was an active organization at Kennedy. Philip Tieu (06) stated, "Although I'm not a high ranking official in the ASB community I felt that I and any other members of ASB had a lot of responsibilities and had to make mature decisions." They met at least once a week on Wednesday mornings before school. The organization helped students build leadership skills. Madina Omar (07) stated, "Even though this is my first year in ASB I learned a lot about how the school works." ASB was a form of government for our school. They handled the creation of new clubs, finances for the separate classes, elected members, set up fundraisers, and advocated school spirit among many other good merits. Robert Porter (07) stated, "Being a blood drive commissioner was awesome because I got to help out the community, get service learning opportunities. and get out of class." It has given many students the opportunity to experience responsibility at an early age. The ASB was a great opportunity to learn and have great experiences.

Janet Shimm (07) looks intently as the meeting progresses. "Some meetings are long while some are short, it all depends," Shimm commented.

Intently, Liliana De La Paz (06) concentrates hard on what was being discussed during the minutes.

Matthew Stem (06) stated, "Though I had to wake up early to come to ASB meetings, it was worth it because I feel like I accomplished a lot."

All ears. Maria Nazari (07) sat patiently while the four classes gave their updates. She stated, "Though the meetings are long they are very imformative and help me to better know what is going on in the school and within my class."

This is where the road ends for some of us, some move on while others continue to stay behind. The dead end was the end of one journey and the beginning of another. No matter what grade you were in, the community was a part of your high school career. Whether it was for service learning or pure enjoyment students did their part. Students, parents, siblings, and teachers all became one family and worked together to get students where they are today. Along the way there were rocky roads and sharp turns that brought drastic changes over the years, but this family helped them get through it. High school shaped whom they were and who they are going to become, wherever they are in the future they won't forget this family.

Te queremos mucho. Take care.

Your Mom & Oscar, your Brother Ernesto & your Sister Stephanie.

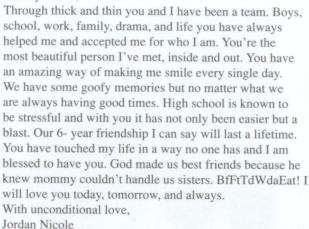

Since 7th grade you have been the only person who has truly been there for me through it all. We have stuck together over the years, and I'm glad that to this day you are still my best friend. We have changed so much, learned so much, and been through so much together and there are no words to explain how thankful I am to have you. We have so many memories and plenty more to come. Remember, this is just the beginning of our lives, and if we have stuck together throughout the changes in high school, we'll be able to keep in touch through EVERYTHING. Our kids will grow up together, and we will be those little ladies that take each other to their doctor's here and I love you to death! BFFTTDWDAEAT!

Amanda Morrison

Amanda,

From the time you were born, you filled our lives with laughter and love. We are so very proud of the person you have become. This is a special time in your life. Try to enjoy every moment and make lots of memories. We love you so much and can't wait to see what the future brings for you. Just trust in God, believe in yourself, and never give up hope. Papa and Nanny are looking down at you, smiling, knowing that you've become the wonderful young woman they knew you would be. And remember, reach for the stars... live you dreams!

This is the time when we are supposed to give you words of advice for entering the next phase of your journey. So here it goes: blah-blah-blah-blah. Forget it! You don't need it. You've grown into a fine young man who knows where he is going. We are very proud of you. Not only are you handson and intelligent, but you are also patient, caring, and always finding the best in others- you'd be perfect if only you showed little more enthusiasm about mowing the lawn! Let this moment bring great satisfaction to you- you have worked hard for it. There's world out there just waiting for you to quer it. Look out, world! Here comes Gerry!! Congratulations, grad.

There are no words that can express how very proud I am of you! The past 18 years have been challenging, but definitely a learning experience you'll take with you into your adulthood. You have the gift of wisdom and have used it wisely. Your talents in both academics and music will open up "doors of opportunity" for you and I have no doubt in my mind that your determination will take you far in life.

Keep a positive approach towards life! Always believe in yourself! I know Dad would have been so proud of you! Congratulations. We love you,

They say two is a company, but three is a crowd. The three amigos here to the rescue! The three of us come from different walks of life, but yet we still act the same as if we were all brothers. What we have formed is something beyond friendship, beyond the line "Ill be there for you". There are no words to express what we have done for each other we have finished this movie of high school "FRIENDS", And now its time to start a new one. Good times and bad we will remain the same brothers from day one. Love you guys!

Tiffany,

Congratulations Tiffany,

I am very proud of you and love you very much. I remember your first day of school, and now I will get to see your last day of high school. (I wasn't sure I would be around to see you graduate, but God has been good to us). You have worked so hard become a well-rounded young woman, both at school and in the community. I am sorry your auntie will not be here to see you graduate, but she is looking down from above.

Remember to set high goals for yourself and work hard to achieve them. You have blossomed into this beautiful person, both inside and out...BE ALL YOU CAN BE.... Love,

Matthew,

Graduation is just around the corner and soon you'll be off to college and the next steps of your life. We are very proud of what you have accomplished and the person you have become. Set your goals high and always follow your dreams. We know you will succeed in whatever you want to do... just put your mind to it and it will become a reality. And remember we will ALWAYS be there for you.

Katelyn Rivera

Katelyn, Katelyn Sierra, "Kaye"

Ask me what beauty is, and I will show you my daughter. You are so beautiful in every way... How can I possibly tell you all the feelings that I had for you far before you ever took your first breath. You have always exceeded my every expectation. And I do realize how protective I have always been, but my love for you is unconditional and always will be. You, from day one, have been a source of laughter and admiration for me that I've always felt deep inside my heart. I have watched you grow and play and the years have passed by far too fast for me. I will always somehow envision you as my little girl. And as I look upon all of these photographs of memories of you, I remember them as if it was yesterday. My fondest wish is that you can always feel as special as you are to your family. From being the sparkle in your Daddy's eye, to the beautiful, popular, so very cool big sister that Hollie and Andrew have always looked up to. For always being Grandma and papas 1st granddaughter who always assumed the proud position of being sat high on papas knee. Remember you are sweet and loveable and capable of achieving everything your heart desires. So don't ever stop reaching. I, as you mother could not be more proud. I love you very, very much! Congratulations "K, K".

I will love you always...Mor

Katelyn,

You are my first granddaughter and we couldn't have asked for anything more. Your affectionate nature, your curiosity, your adventurous spirit and your wit makes you such a joy.

I am proud of who you are and excited about who you will become. Keep you purpose clean, your eyes on the goal and your hands on work. Much success my darling!

Congratulations Class of 2006!!!

It all begins her

Ali was always there to take pictures. She was so excited one day, she forgot to take the lense cap off. I look forward to having her next year.

See the candy, yearbook class begins and

What will I do without my Precious! You have been my left and right hand for 2 years. I can hear myself in my sleep, "Precious, Precious, do you know were that spread is?" I will greatly miss Editors Kim and Scarlett needed food energy before they could start their day. Did they share with Mrs. Clark? NO, but they ate healthy so I am proud of them. I bet they had dreams of Mrs. Clark always asking were this or that spread was. I can't wait to see them next year.

Jessica is always smiling even when Mrs. Clark is on the war path. She hid in the front and tried to escape, but their is no place at this school to hide.

Last year Madina used to sleep in the chair. Now she is America's Next Top Model.

This is what I like to see. Elissa is working, or is she? can say she was. It was hard work to finish spreads but in the end it paid off.

It is hard to believe the year is finished and we are planning for next year. We certainly have had some moments. I decided we should up grade to InDesign CS2 and what a challenge, but I am proud all of you adapted and took on the new program. Then Lauren almost got struck by lightening trying to get pictures for cross crountry. We lost the index 3 times and still kept going. The food kept disappearing, maybe next year it will stay a couple of days without

Clai and his incredible appetite. Yearbook is not an easy task but all of you worked hard and got it done (es pecially with Mrs. Clark and her Dr. Jekle and Mr. Hyde personality)

Robbie is an awesome

Chelsey is my "everything" girl. Any task that I threw her way she was able to get the job done. What a woman. I can't until next year!

DECA

"My favorite part about DECA is working with all the future business leaders. They can be tough to deal with sometimes but it's fun," stated Ms. LeBeouf.

Cynthia Severn (07) said, "Conferences are the best part of DECA because you put all your marketing skills into action."

"Besides the conferences, I like the part of DECA where we practice marketing skills," said Vanessa Haro (06).

Jeremy Goldberd (06) favorite part of DECA is working with the people in the class. Kyle Preddy (07) on the other hand liked going to the competitions because he was able to get away from school.

"The trips (fieldtrips and conferences) and meeting new people are the best part of DECA," stated Bryce Canada (06).

TOBACCO EDUCATORS

JFK S.W.A.T.

(Students Working Against Tobacco)

Spread By: Katrina Mares

Maybe the reason so many teens smoked was that they never had knowlegde of the toxins they had let enter their bodies. However, for Kennedy teens, that was not an excuse. Advisor Trina Bega had put together a club known as the tobacco educators. "Tobacco peers program started during the 02-03 school year. Because I was asked to start a program, I had to go through training for tobacco prevention," explained Trina Bega. I learned a lot about tobacco and media and the manipulation of kids/teens. These students were trained on giving presentations providing information on tobacco and drug use. "I had to go thruugh district training and in class training, I also learned as I went," said Yavil Vasquez (07). Every Freshmen would be educated at one point of their freshmen year. "As a freshmen, I learned and became more aware of my surroundings and drug usage," explained Ashlee Sudaria (08). The educators were on hand and willing to help, whether it was answering frequently asked questions or just providing facts that surprised their audiences.

Q: What have you accomplished as a tobacco educator?

A: Hopefully, I've accomplished helping kids to stop smoking and I even received service learning hours.

-Miguel Posadas (06)

O: How do you feel while educating teens on tobacco?
A: I feel very responsible, caring and helpful in teaching younger peers about tobacco and other drugs.
-Tiffany Gaspie (06)

Q: What do you hope to accomplish in your next years of educating?
A: I hope to help kids stop smoking because I've lost someone to smoking.

DESIGN:

The Legend Volume XXXXI, was produced by the yearbook class at John F. Kennedy High School in Fremont, California and printed by Herff Jones Yearbook in Logan, Utah. Representatives Jane Roehrig and Heidi Bryant, and customer service adviser Terri Schnell serviced the account. Neelab Roashan, a senior in the class, developed the theme EXTREME MAKEOVER. Heidi Berentzen designed the cover and incorporated a 4-color Litho, which consisted of the school blueprints and marquee. Applied paints consisted of CMYK, but there were no applied foils or grain. The end sheets were printed on 100-pound VC 01 White paper. The book's 192 pages are printed on 80-pound Bordeaux paper. The 41st volume includes 32 pages in full color and no spot color pages.

PHOTOS:

Frames of color and frames of black and white film were shot by staff members using a Canon Power Shot A80, Canon Digital Rebel XT, and Canon 300D. Lifetouch also assisted in taking hundreds of pictures. Herff Jones in Logan, Utah is processing and printing and Prestige Portraits provided the student portraits.

All body copy was set in size 10 AHJ Typewriter, and captions were size 9 AHJ Unitus; headline fonts were set in AHJ Palladio, AHJ Plakett One, and AHJ Typewriter.

COMPUTERS:

The Legend was produced using Adobe InDesign CS2 on 36 Pentium 3 and 4 PC computers and HP Laserjet 4500N and a HP Laserjet 4350n. Pages were submitted to the plant on a compact disk.

SPECIAL THANKS:

Thank you to all the companies and representatives who took their time to make the yearbook an immense project:

Jane Roehrig, Heidi Bryant, and Terri Schnell with Herff Jones and Prestige Portraits by Lifetouch. We would also like to give a big thanks to Heidi Berentzen for creating a fantastic cover. We would also like to thank the students, staff and administration for their assistance and cooperation in the publication of the 41st volume of the yearbook. Without their patience and enormous support, we would have not been able to successfully complete "EXTREME MAKEOVER".
